COLLEGE PRIZES.

The two Andrews Scholarships of October 1860 of £85 each, were awarded according to the altered Regulations,—one for Classical Proficiency alone, and one for Mathematical Proficiency alone. The Scholarship for Proficiency in Classics was obtained by Mr. Talfourd Ely, of London; and in Mathematics and Natural Philosophy by Mr. Horatio Nelson Grimley, of London. The sum of £160, accrued from lapsed Andrews Scholarships, as mentioned in the last year's Report, has been invested in India Stock, subject to a declaration that it is to be considered as money retained in the hands of the Council until some special occasion shall arise for applying it.

The Atkinson Morley Surgical Scholarship of £45 per annum, tenable for three years, was awarded to Mr. Isidore B. Lyon, of London.

The Ricardo Scholarship in Political Economy, of £20 a year for three years, was obtained by Mr. William Stanley Jevons, of London. The Examiners reported that the positive proficiency of Mr. Herbert H. Cozens-Hardy and Mr. John Laing was deserving of commendation, and such as they should have considered worthy of the Scholarship.

The Longridge Prize of £40, of the Session 1860, for general proficiency in Medicine and Surgery, was awarded to Mr. William John Smith, of West Heath, Hants.

The Filliter Exhibition in Pathological Anatomy, of £30, was conferred on Mr. Henry Charlton Bastian, of Falmouth.

The Clinical Gold Medal of Dr. Fellowes, for observations on Medical Cases in the Hospital for the Winter Term, was conferred on Mr. Edmund Holland, of Rugeley.

The Liston Clinical Gold Medal, for Reports and Observations on the Surgical Cases in the Hospital, was awarded to Mr. William Hickman, of London.

The Prize offered by the Council for the best English Essay on an Historical, Biographical, or Speculative Subject, was awarded to Mr. Theodore Waterhouse, of Reading. The subject proposed by the Senate was "Toleration in matters of opinion." Professor Masson was the Examiner. A similar Prize has been offered for the current Session; the subject, "The History of English Blank Verse." The Reading Room Society's Prize of £5 for the best Latin Prose Essay, was also awarded to Mr. Theodore Waterhouse. The subject proposed by the Senate was "The Double Royalty of Sparta." Professor Newman was the Examiner. A similar Prize has been offered for the current Session; the subject, "De Clientelâ Romanâ."

The Jews' Commemoration Scholarship of £15 a year, tenable for two years, was awarded to Mr. George S. Joseph, of London. Of the Students of the Faculty of Arts of not more than one year's standing in the College, Mr. Joseph was reported by the Faculty to be most distinguished for general proficiency and good conduct.

JUNIOR SCHOOL.

The state of the School during the Session 1859–60, as for several years past, has been inquired into by a Committee of the Council. They informed the Council that they had examined with care the Reports of the various Masters, and had conferred personally with the Head Master on all points which those Reports seemed to suggest. They were glad to be able to record a very satisfactory state of the School. The testimony of all the Masters, as to the order, discipline, and general good conduct of the Pupils, was unanimous and gratifying. As to diligence in study also, and effective progress of the Pupils, the Reports presented satisfactory evidence. In these respects the School fully maintained its credit, and the Committee saw sufficient reason to approve of its working during the past Session. The Committee were glad to learn from the Head Master that Mr. Hirst, the new Mathematical Master, engaged to fill the place of the late excellent Teacher, Mr. Cook, proved to be a worthy and effective successor.

The Pupils of the Junior School, both former and present, have joined in testifying their regard for Mr. Cook's memory by founding a Prize, to be called the Cook Prize, and to be awarded annually to a Pupil of the School for the highest proficiency in Mathematics and Natural Philosophy, if a standard of sufficient merit be reached. The Prize is to consist of Books, with a suitable inscription. The Council, at the request of the Subscribers, have consented to hold and undertake the management of the Fund. It amounts at present to £150 1s.; an addition of three or four pounds is desired, and expected to produce a sum which, invested in Consols, will yield a dividend of £5 per annum, to be applied to the purchase of the books to be presented.

The former pupils of the School who distinguished themselves in the College Examinations, and obtained Prizes and Certificates of Honour, were:—Mr. George S. Joseph, who, besides the Jews' Commemoration Scholarship above mentioned, took the first Prize in the Junior Class of Greek, the second Certificate in the Senior Class of German, the first Prize in the Higher Junior Class of Mathematics, and the second Prize in the Experimental Class of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy. Mr. Alfred Cotterell Tupp had the second Prize in the Senior Class of Latin, the third Certificate in extra Class of Greek, the seventh Certificate in the Senior Class of English, and the second Prize in the Class of Comparative Grammar. At the Matriculation Examination in July last, Mr. William Hackney, of London, obtained the Prize of Books for his Examination in Zoology.

PROFESSORSHIPS.

The changes in the Professorships since the last General Meeting have been numerous and important. The Council have had to regret the retirement from the service of the College of several Professors who had occupied their Chairs during a long series of years, and whose wide-spread reputation in the subjects of their respective Courses added authority to their instruction.

Dr. Lindley had conducted most successfully the studies of the Class of Botany, from the opening of the College in 1828, to the close of the last Session, when he resigned the Chair for the reason that, having given up all residence in London, he found that the discharge of the duties of the Professorship at a distance from his abode, and under the burden of other important avocations and increasing years, made too great a demand on his time and strength. The Council, accepting with regret Dr. Lindley's resignation, expressed their high sense of the services which he had rendered to the College, and of the lustre which the Class had derived from being associated with a name so eminent in Botanical Science.

Professor Creasy resigned the Professorship of History on receiving from Her Majesty's Government the appointment of Chief Justice of Ceylon. He had occupied the Chair for just twenty years. The Council, while lamenting the loss of his valuable services, could not but rejoice with him on the professional promotion and accession of dignity which occasioned it.

M. Merlet had held the Professorship of French Language and Literature from the opening of the College until Christmas last, when, in consequence of the state of his health and his advanced age, he found himself unable to go through the exertions necessary for teaching a living language. He therefore tendered his resignation, which was accepted by the Council with much regret at the termination of his long and useful labours, and assurances of the high opinion entertained by them of the zeal and ability with which he had instructed the Classes of French Language and Literature.

Her Majesty's Government having determined on founding an Army Medical School at Chatham, conferred the appointment of Professor of Hygiène at that Institution on Dr. Edmund Alexander Parkes.

This appointment necessitated the retirement of Dr. Parkes from the office which he had held since the year 1849, of Special Professor of Clinical Medicine at the Hospital in connexion with this College. This resignation was accepted with an acknowledgement of the great value of the services which Dr. Parkes had rendered to the College and Hospital, and sincere regret at the loss of those services.

Mr. Green, after being Professor of Jurisprudence during one Session, was induced to leave England by the prospect of professional employment in Bombay, and consequently resigned his Professorship in this College.

The resignation of Professor Merlet gave occasion for the first time since the foundation of the College, for the operation of the Bye-Law which provides that a Professor retiring from Office by reason of his age may, if he thinks proper, assume the title of Emeritus Professor. Previously, however, the Council, on the recommendation of the Senate, had invited Sir Edward Creasy, Mr. Graham (now Master of the Mint), and Dr. Lindley, in consideration of their long and eminent services, to assume that title, and had the gratification of finding that the title and the nominal connexion with the College implied by it, were highly appreciated by them.

The resignations above announced gave rise to the following appointments. The Professorship of History was conferred on Mr. Edward Spencer Beesly, A.M., formerly of Wadham College, Oxford; at the time of his Candidature, and still, Principal of University Hall. Mr. Daniel Oliver, Librarian to the Royal Establishment at Kew, was appointed successor to Dr. Lindley. Dr. Joseph Sharpe, Examiner in Law and the Principles of Legislation for the University of Cambridge and at the University of London, was appointed Professor of Jurisprudence. Dr. Jenner, Professor of Pathological Anatomy in the College, who during Dr. Parkes's absence in the East at the time of the Russian War, and his subsequent illness had acted as his substitute, was appointed Special Professor of Clinical Medicine at the Hospital. This promotion caused a vacancy in one of the Offices of the Hospital for the care of out-patients, and in consequence the office of Assistant-Physician was conferred on Dr. J. R. Reynolds. Professor Jenner has lately been appointed Physician-Extraordinary to Her Majesty, in the place of the late Dr. Baly. As the appointment of Dr. Jenner to be Physician to the Queen will not occasion his relinquishment of the office of Special Professor of Clinical Medicine in this College, the Council are highly gratified at his being chosen to fill a Professional Office of so much dignity, importance, and responsibility. They rejoice most heartily when the merits of former Students, who, like Dr. Parkes and Dr. Jenner, have done so much credit to the College, are thus recognized and honoured. Dr. Baly had also been a Student of this College, having attended here the usual Classes in his two first years of Medical Studentship. He obtained the Gold Medal in the Class of Anatomy, and the second Silver Medal in the Class of Medicine*.

The Council, on the recommendation of the Medical Committee, seconded by the Managing Committee, of the Hospital, have instituted

* At the same Examination the Gold Medal for Medicine was gained by Mr. Francis Taylor, then of Hull; and the First Silver Medal by Mr. Michael Foster, of Huntingdon, whose son, Mr. Michael Foster, has been frequently the subject of mention in the Reports of the Council during a very distinguished career in the Junior School, and in both the Faculties of the College and at the Examinations of the University of London.

an Office of Assistant Surgeon in the Ophthalmic Department of the Hospital, in aid of Professor Wharton Jones, who had found the duties of Surgeon to the Eye Infirmary too onerous for a single officer. Applications for the appointment to the new office are now under consideration.

The Professorship of French is still vacant. The usual measures for filling the Chair are in progress, and in the meantime the Classes are instructed by Mr. Cassal, one of the French Masters in the Junior School.

The Council, with the view of providing more completely for the instruction within the College of Candidates for the Civil Service of India who have passed the first examination, and have to prepare for the second, have instituted a Professorship of the Bengalli Language and of Hindu Law, and have appointed Mr. Gannendr Mohun Tagore, a native of Bengal, Professor of those branches of knowledge. Other Classes for the study of the special subjects of the Second Examination for the Indian Civil Service now meeting in the College, are those of Sanskrit of Professor Goldstücker, of Hindustani of Professor Abdoollah, and of Jurisprudence of Professor Sharpe. The numbers attending these Classes are, from the nature of the circumstances, small. The Professors deserve well of the College for the zeal with which they conduct them.

CLASS OF ANIMAL PHYSIOLOGY.

Early in the Session a Memorial was received by the Council from several Students, stating that they were desirous of obtaining a knowledge of Animal Physiology and Zoology to meet the requirements of the University of London for the B.A. and B.Sc. Examinations; and that from being occupied during the day they were unable to attend any of the Classes on those subjects existing in the College. It was also represented to the Council, that many Members of the Schoolmasters' Social Science Association were desirous of attending an Evening Course of Lectures on these subjects, and that it was probable such Classes, if instituted, might be attended by other Gentlemen who wished to add a knowledge of the Elements of Animal Physiology and their application to the preservation of public and individual health, to an acquaintance with other branches of a liberal education. The Council referred the matter for consideration to the Senate of the College, and by their advice, and on their report that it would not be convenient to Professor Sharpey to undertake an Evening Course, the Council determined to institute Evening Courses especially for the Faculty of Arts, on the subjects. Professor Grant undertook to give a Course of 12 Lectures on Zoology; and for a Course of 12 Lectures on Animal Physiology, the Council, on the recommendation of the Senate, appointed as Lecturer Mr. John Marshall, F.R.S., Surgeon to the University College Hospital, the author of a work recently published entitled the "Human Body, its Structure, and Functions," being a Commentary on nine large Physiological Diagrams devised by him, and executed under his direction at the request of the Government Department of Science and Art, with whose sanction they were published. The Class meets once a week from 7½ to 9 on Tuesday. Four Lectures have been given, and been attended by one hundred and eight Students, of whom more than eighty-nine are Schoolmasters. The Fee for general Students is One Guinea; for Schoolmasters, 10*s.* 6*d.*

PRESENTS FOR MUSEUMS AND LIBRARIES.

Besides the additions to the Museums and Libraries specified in the Lists appended to this Report, the Council have to record the gift of 50 guineas from the Graphic Society, for the further embellishment of the Flaxman Hall. This sum, together with £35 12*s.* 6*d.*, the balance of a former gift from the same Society, and £22 7*s.* 6*d.* contributed by a friend of the Society, making together £110, has been expended in providing, under the direction of a Committee of the Graphic Society, and with professional assistance, as architect, of Mr. Donaldson, one of its Members, a floor in Parquetry for the Flaxman Hall.

The Council at their Session in June last had the gratification of receiving a full-length Portrait in oil of the late Baron de Goldsmid. This picture was a copy which Sir Francis Goldsmid and Mr. Goldsmid had caused to be made by Mrs. Goodman, expressly for the College, from a Portrait of their father by the late Mr. Faulkner. The Council recorded their thanks for the kind and valuable present of the portrait of their late lamented colleague, "one of the original founders, as well as one of the warmest and most esteemed friends of University College."

A Bust in Plaster, of Sir Edward Creasy, by Mr. Edgar George Papworth, jun., was presented to the College after Sir Edward's departure for Ceylon.

A Statuette in plaster of John Hunter, being a sketch by Mr. Slater, Sculptor, of a design for a Memorial by the College of Surgeons to the illustrious founder of their Museum, has also been received.

The most considerable donation to the Library since the last Annual Meeting has been the gift of Mr. Thomas Martin, of Reigate, of a collection of Medical Books, 164 volumes and 22 pamphlets, formerly belonging to Dr. Alfred Hardwick, an original Proprietor of the College, of whose Will Mr. Martin was the Executor.

The Second Part of the 'Illustrations of the Genus Carex' has been presented by the author, Dr. Boott. Professor Goldstücker has made a present to the College of an interesting work edited by himself with a preface of 268 pages—a lithographed Fac-Simile of a Sanskrit Manuscript—a portion of the ancient work on Vaidik Rites, Mánava-Kalpa-Sútra, together with the Commentary of Kumárila-Swamin. The Fac-simile is that of a MS. (No. 17) in the Library of Her Majesty's Home Government for India. The College is moreover indebted to Professor Goldstücker for the parts published (1–4) of the first volume of his Dictionary of Sanskrit and English, and for a copy of his work, 'Pánini, his place in Sanskrit Literature.'

For the collections of Natural History, presents are to be recorded, of specimens of Hierochloe Borealis from Thurso, presented by Robert Brown, Esq., of Edinburgh: of five specimens of preparations of Comatula and its Pentacrinoid Larva, and three Bryozoa from the Isle of Arran, mounted for microscopic observation, by Dr. Carpenter: and of specimens of Basaltic Columns from the Giant's Causeway, by Frederick William Janson, Esq.

Additions have been made to the apparatus of Natural Philosophy, Mechanics, &c., by gifts from T. E. Harrison, Esq., Civil Engineer, of Models of Shipping Jetties, and Spouts for Shipping Coal used at the Tyne Collier Docks; and from Professor De Morgan of a Machine for exhibiting the approximate values of Trigonometrical Functions, invented by G. R. Smalley, Esq.

FINANCES.

The statement of Receipts and Expenditure at p. 16 shows a replacement at the commencement of the Session of the balance of £207 19*s.* 11*d.*, which appeared against the account of Receipts in the last year's Table; and at the close of the year an actual balance of £48 12*s.* 10*d.* in favour of Receipts. As, however, this adjustment was effected mainly by the sale alluded to in last year's Report as having taken place after the date of the Financial papers then submitted, of a portion of India Stock for £1130 7*s.* 6*d.*, to meet the expenses incurred in fitting up the New Museum, a further explanation is due; and it should be stated that a close examination of Receipt and Expenditure for 1859-60, proves that the expenditure for ordinary purposes exceeded the ordinary receipts. The College portion of Fees, v. p. 5, was £2987 10*s.* 4*d.* The Income derived from the Dividends of Invested Funds applicable to the expenses of the Establishment, viz. of Bacon Fund, £620 4*s.* 1*d.*, of the Holme Fund, employed for special and general purposes of the Medical School, £684 19*s.* 5*d.*; from Mortgage Interest, £150; and from other sources, £50 14*s.*, was £1505 17*s.* 6*d.*, making altogether £4493 7*s.* 10*d.* for the ordinary income of the year. The expenses, after deducting payments for objects properly chargeable to Capital, such as Building and new Furniture and Apparatus, were £4885 19*s.* 4*d.*, leaving a deficit of £392 11*s.* 6*d.* From this, however, a sum of £59 11*s.*, received since the close of the Accounts as returned Income Tax on the Dividends above-mentioned, has to be deducted, and the deficit will then stand at £333 0*s.* 6*d.* This may be accounted for as follows:—The College portion of Students' Fees, &c. was below the average of the four preceding years by £156: the Income from India Stock, in consequence of the sale of a portion of it, was less than in former years by £52 10*s.*: additions to the staff of Beadles and Servants during part of the year cost £40: the Account of House Repairs was in excess of the ordinary expenses under the same head, on an average of the four former years, to the amount of at least £120: this excess was owing to expenses not likely to recur for several years, of which a thorough Repair of Boilers to the Hot Water Apparatus, after eleven years' service, at a cost of £108, may be mentioned as one example. This is the first occasion since 1855 that the ordinary disbursements during the year have exceeded the ordinary Receipts. The Council hope that in future they may be able, without any departure from efficient management, to keep the Expenditure within the Receipt.

THE HOSPITAL.

The Dinner in June last in aid of the Funds of the Hospital, at which the President of the College and Hospital, Lord Brougham, was in the Chair, proved a highly successful appeal to the public. His Lordship was most zealously and liberally supported on the occasion by several warm friends of himself and of these Institutions. The collection amounted to £3453. It has enabled the Committee to relieve the Hospital from a considerable portion of debt, and has encouraged them to endeavour to improve the management of the Charity in several respects, but most especially in the Department of Nursing.

Among the Donors on that occasion were the following:—The Goldsmiths' Company, £200; The Fishmongers' Company, £100; The Grocers' Company, £50; The Drapers' Company, £21; The London and North Western Railway Company, £50; John Drewitt, Esq., as Trustee for a Charitable Fund, £100; J. P. Heywood, Esq., £500; J. R. and A. W. Jaffray, Esqs., £500; Sir Francis Goldsmid, Bart., M.P., the Treasurer, £200; Joseph Mason, Esq., per Coutts and Co., £200; F. D. Goldsmid, Esq., £100; J. J. Lister, Esq., £50; Colonel Samuel Long, £50; Dr. Parkes, £50; Mr. Julian Goldsmid, the amount of an Andrews Scholarship gained by him in the College in October 1859, £60. A further donation by Mrs. Flanagan of £50 for investment, making an addition to former contributions for the like purpose by the same Lady, £200, was received: the Gift was invested according to her desire, and the sum of £53 9*s.* 6*d.* Consols purchased with it. The following sums have been received on account of Legacies:—£1000, free of duty, bequeathed by the late Mrs. A. Worley; £100, the bequest of the late Mrs. Ball, free of duty; £100 the bequest of Richard Joseph Reed, Esq., in 1859; £35 8*s.* 8*d.*, a further payment on account of Mr. Cuthbert Morris' Legacy of £500, in November 1859, making £311 16*s.* 1*d.* received; £45, a gift by the Executors of the late Mrs. M. A. Rundell, presented by the direction of the testatrix as the donation of the late E. W. Rundell, Esq. Notice of the following Legacies have been received during the year:—of £200 by the late William Richards, payable after decease of his Widow; of £100, free of duty, by the late Aaron Asher Goldsmid, Esq.
